Yale

No Score Cutoffs

There are no score cutoffs for standardized tests, and successful candidates present a wide range of test results. During the most recent year, test score ranges (25th to 75th percentiles) for enrolled first-years were:

- SAT-Evidence-Based Reading and Writing: 720-770
- SAT-Math: 740-790
- ACT Composite: 33-35

While there is no hard and fast rule, it is safe to say that performance in school is more important than testing. A very strong performance in a demanding college preparatory program may compensate for modest standardized test scores, but it is unlikely that high standardized test scores will persuade the admissions committee to disregard an undistinguished secondary-school record.

Just a couple more things to note...

The background is a solid orange color. In the top right corner, there are three decorative elements: a small circle with a pie chart, a larger circle with a pie chart, and another small circle with a pie chart, all in varying shades of orange.

Toefl? SATs? GPA? EC? Essays?

They all matter. Seriously.
